

TRANSFORMATIVE POWER

ourunitedway.org/give

Your gift will ensure more individuals can turn their lives around and achieve their dreams. At 35 and a single parent to two children, Jordan's journey from addiction to recovery is a testament to the resilience and the transformative power of support. Struggling with drug addiction from a young age, Jordan's life spiraled out of control despite attempts to find stability.

After multiple arrests and failed attempts at rehabilitation, Jordan finally found hope at United Way Community Partner Carter Hope Center. Entering the program, Jordan was embraced by a community that offered the individualized attention he desperately needed. The program's counselors provided daily, one-on-one support, helping him unpack years of suppressed emotions. For the first time, he felt it was okay to express his feelings and learned how to manage them. This individualized attention was crucial for his recovery, allowing him to rebuild his life from the ground up.

Just months into the program, Jordan achieved milestones he once thought impossible: repairing his credit, buying a motorcycle, purchasing a vehicle, and eventually securing a home loan. Jordan is now a lead equipment technician. He is a newlywed, excited to start a new journey with his wife and children. Jordan credits God and Carter Hope Center for saving his life and giving him a family and a future. United Way helps provide individuals like Jordan with opportunities to gain employment and independence.
